WASHINGTON PEOPLE WORKING FOR TROLLEY LINE TO RIVER

Advantages Pointed Out for Connection With Charleroi Line at Cokeburg

PROPOSED PLAN IS OUTLINED

Arrangements Possible With Pittsburgh Railways Company at Washington For Extension—Industrial Operations Along Route Increased

The following story from the Washington Observer indicates the feasibility of the construction in the far distant future of a trolley connecting the county seat with river section by way of Bentleyville to Charleroi:

Many of the merchants and business men of Washington believe that there is a splendid opportunity just to secure street railway connection with Bentleyville and the river section if they get together on project.

The Charleroi business men have taken a road from their town to Ellensburg for the purpose of bringing the line of that section to the Magic City. The money was raised by the business men of Charleroi as a commercial proposition entirely as the line which formerly went to Charleroi was diverted to Monongahela several years ago on the completion of the Pennsylvania branch from Monongahela to Marianna.

Under the charter of the Bentleyville-Charleroi Street Railway company it will be necessary to have the line completed as far as Cokeburg. It is said that this extension will be constructed sometime within present year.

According to the experts who have gone over the proposed line between Washington and Bentleyville, a road about 10 or 11 miles in length will meet this Cokeburg terminus with terminus of the Pittsburgh Railway company, if the latter concern agree to build their line out of the borough line, which they do under their present charter. It is believed that arrangements then could be made with the Pittsburgh Railway company to have the cars run in over the former's lines in the center of Washington at the present fare.

While experts have gone over the proposed route between Cokeburg and Washington, estimates cannot be made on the cost of the grading and excavating until a survey has been made; and many of the business men of Washington believe that this survey ought to be made with a view of taking up a proposition of financing the building of the road.

It is the general opinion that free rights of way could be secured the distance of ten or eleven miles a route which would not be expensive on which to construct a line. Construction would bring Washington into direct communication with the entire river section, a half hour's ride to Cokeburg and Bentleyville and easily within an hour to Charleroi. It would tap the Pittsburgh line at "Michael O'Halloran" 46-46.

SEVENTY-FIVE CHICKENS IN ONE HAUL AT MONONGAHELA

Thieves Operate at Coops of M. S. Warne, Taking Some of the Most Valuable Fowls to be Found.

Seventy-five chickens, represented the clean sweep made by burglars from the coops of M. S. Warne of Monongahela some time during Tuesday night. The stolen birds were of a selected variety, some of them being prize winners.

The haul is one of the biggest in years in Monongahela, yet no clue has been offered. Several robberies of roosts have been reported within the last few weeks in that section, and it is supposed by some that an organized gang is at work.

The thieves at the Warne coops worked swiftly and quietly. Warne lives at 700 Main street and his coops ordinarily are well protected.

OUTING PLANS ARE COMPLETED

Eldora Park to be Scene of Great Miners' Gathering on Saturday

LOCAL PEOPLE INTERESTED

Final arrangements have been perfected for what it is believed will be the biggest outing of miners ever held in the Monongahela valley, the affair to be that Saturday of sub-district No. 3 of district No. 5 of the United Mine Workers at Eldora park. For the first time the miners of the Charleroi mine of the Carnegie Coal company will have an official part in the outing and they are helping with the arrangements.

As announced previously the first-aid demonstration to consist of an open and a closed contest will be the chief feature of the day, but in addition to this there will be quoit championship contests, races of all kinds and dancing afternoon and evening. Valuable prizes will be given contest winners.

Phillip Murray, an international board member of district No. 5 will be the chairman of a meeting which will be held during the afternoon. Speeches will be made by Frank J. Hayes, international vice president of the Mine Workers, and Van Bittner, president of district No. 5. The quoit and racing contests will begin at 10:30 o'clock in the morning and the first-aid contests at 1 o'clock, the speakers to follow the first-aid work. Music will be furnished by the Charleroi concert band.

Big events have been booked for next week at Eldora park. On Wednesday (Continued on page four.)

GRAND JURY INDICTS YOUTHS FOR MURDER

Investigation Started Into Killing of Canonsburg Boy—

Young Men Resented Having Boys Follow Them

Edward Harmon and Clarence Bowen the two young men held for the death of Bert Bissel, aged 18 years at Canonsburg on the evening of May 11 last, were indicted by the grand jury Wednesday on a charge of murder. The two had previously been held by the coroner's jury to await the action of the grand jury. Harmon one of the defendants, has never been apprehended. He and Bowen both left Canonsburg the night of the shooting for parts unknown. Young Bowen afterwards returned home and gave himself up. He is now out on bail. He was one of the witnesses before the grand jury Wednesday. It is understood that he denies he was in any way responsible for Bissel's death that the shot that caused Bissel's death was fired by Harmon.

Ida Wortsell and Phoebe Glover the girls who were with Harmon and Bowen at the time the shooting occurred, were also witnesses before the grand jury. They had taken a walk with Harmon and Bowen. The boy who was killed a younger brother, Stanley Bissel and two other companions, Charles Mawhinney and William Williams, had followed the young men and the girls.

The young men evidently resented the boys following them. Some words were passed and the shooting followed. It occurred just off the Canonsburg-Houston road, just outside of Canonsburg. The young man that was killed was well known in Canonsburg. Young Bowen, who gave himself up, is also a well known man of that place.

The grand jury is disposing of a large number of cases, 22 being heard yesterday. The list for Wednesday was cleaned up and so far the work is up to schedule.

RAISES POTATOES THAT WEIGH A POUND EACH

Walter Pryor of Near Bentleyville Has Record-Breaking Crop—Fifteen Weigh Seventeen Pounds, Four Weigh Six Pounds

Records for raising potatoes are claimed by Walter Pryor of near Bentleyville, with plenty of right to the title. Pryor was in Charleroi Wednesday with some of his Early Rose products and for potatoes they were immense.

Pryor had a basket of 15 potatoes that weighed 17 pounds. From one hill he extracted four that weighed about six pounds.

One feature of the potato crop is that all the potatoes are nearly the same size. The average weight of half a hundred potatoes was pretty nearly one pound each. To be exact, 51 potatoes dug from various hills in his patch weighed 47 pounds, which would be an average of a slight fraction less than one pound each. Potatoes of this size are unusual.

MYSTERY SURROUNDS WHEREABOUTS OF GIRL

Sixteen-Year-Old Daughter of John Mayrnik of Monessen, Still Absent From Her Home—Money Disappeared With Her.

Much mystery surrounds the whereabouts of Anna Mayrnik, the 16-year-old daughter of John Mayrnik of Monessen. A thorough search continued for two days and nights has failed to prove anything. The girl left home Monday afternoon taking along with her, as was later reported not only her best clothing but $125 that represented the savings of the father, who is employed at a Monessen mill. Search for trace of the girl is being continued.

Hazelkirk and Dunkirk Start After Long Suspension—Bright Prospects in First Bituminous District.

Hazelkirk mine, No. 2 of the Pittsburgh and Westmoreland Coal company's operations resumed after a suspension of many weeks Wednesday, employing at the start 200 men. Today the Dunkirk mine of the same company was started.

Both the Hazelkirk and the Dunkirk mines have been put in shape for a steady run, heavy orders having been received. Both are located along the Pigeon Creek valley.

The new Sedan mine at Van Vorhis has been working right along. This with the beginning of a new era at the Marianna mines, and increased operations at the Ellsworth, Cokeburg and Bentleyville mines, gives promise of much prosperity in the first bituminous district.

MONONGAHELA TO PUT UP BUILDING

Contract is Awarded for Erection of Municipal Structure

CHARLEROI IS CONSIDERING

Though starting a movement later than Charleroi to get a new municipal building, Monongahela will have one before the "Magic City," the contract for the erection of a brick structure having been awarded by the city commission Tuesday evening to Yohe Bros. Charleroi borough has the site but the erection of a building lies in the dim and uncertain future.

The Monongahela building will be constructed at the corner of Main street and Pike alley, funds having been provided by a bond issue. The building will be sufficient in size to accommodate the various departments of the city work, including the fire department.

Early this year Charleroi borough purchased a municipal building site at the corner of Fourth street and Fallowfield avenue from M. E. Riggs. The purchase price was $10,500, payment being arranged through a bond issue. Plans for a building were contemplated, whereupon it was learned that funds would not be available for the building at this time. It had been proposed that the borough properties now owned be sold, but possible buyers apparently were not ready to invest. It would cost possibly $30,000 to erect the sort of building Charleroi needs.

Samuel E. Rodgers in Mexico City Awaiting Turn of Developments

THERE IN EXCITING PERIOD

Spent Some Time in Capital City During Trouble of 1913—Tells That Mexicans Found it Hard to Understand "Bryan's Diplomacy."

Word has been received from Samuel E. Rodgers, formerly of Charleroi that he is safe in Mexico City. This is the first news that has been received from Rodgers in several weeks. Some concern had been felt for his safety in the war zone to the south.

Recently Dwight Furness, a brother-in-law and business associate in mine operations of Rodgers returned to Illinois from El Paso, stating he had been unable to get word to or from Rodgers at Guanajuato. Conditions were bad, he stated.

How Rodgers got to Mexico City is not known, but it is expected that he will remain there for the present awaiting the turn of affairs.

In 1913 when trouble with Mexico seemed imminent, and a squadron was sent to Vera Cruz to protect American lives and interests, Rodgers was in Mexico City. At the time of the shelling of Vera Cruz by some of Uncle Sam's cruisers he was still in Mexico City. Mexicans there were puzzled, finding it hard, Rodgers said, to understand Bryan's "diplomacy," in declaring his peaceful intent and firing on them.

FARM BOYS BETTER HUSBANDS

Now that certain girl students of a Pennsylvania state normal school have expressed a preference for country boys as possibilities for husbands, the young men of the cities may do well to look to their own qualifications. The girl students take the responsibility of vouching for the statement that farmer boys are "some spooners," says the Harrisburg Star Independent. The spoons are different now than former. Conditions in rural life have changed so that farmers' boys need no longer be greatly different in appearance and in manners from young men who happen to live in cities, except that they may be browner.

There are automobiles on the farms now, as well as various pieces of machinery for use in planting and harvesting. Because of the former there is more pleasure and because of the latter less work for the country boys. Many of these boys frequent the cities, where they do not necessarily give evidences of hayseeds about their persons, but might on the contrary, put some of the young residents there to shame in such matters as relate to strength and health.

In brief, it seems to be coming to pass that country boys, through better facilities for acquainting themselves with desirable features of city life, are absorbing some city ideas which tend to broaden them, at the same time retaining the desirable characteristics acquired on the farm. Naturally, if this is true and if the city boys, with all their urban accomplishments, are failing to absorb the desirable characteristics of the country boys, the latter class is going to be the most sought after as a source for providing the best husbands and the men most useful in other walks of life.

OUR HIGH SCHOOLS.

A principal of a Philadelphia high school, who is lecturing, no doubt has some excellent ideas what should and what should not be taught in the high schools of the country. We have read sketches of his lectures, says the McKeesport News and to a considerable extent must agree with him. And we have read sketches of lectures delivered by other educators along similar lines and must agree with them.

But, the thing that is bothering us is, why is it that these educators do not get together and have these desirable changes made. The time for effective and result-getting work was never more opportune. We have an educator at the head of the state government and it ought to be easy to convince him that changes are needed. It may be that all that is needed is concerted action for it is possible for Governor Brumbaugh to be an advocate of these matters which are being expounded from time to time—about every lecture season in fact.

Speaking of "The High School," one of these lecturers, whose words will no doubt meet with the approval of many said:

"The high school should meet the needs of the boys and girls and of the community. It should train for service in whatever activity the student may find employment and not devote all its time to drill for college entrance. The high school which is financed by the community, owes the same debt to its students who will become artists, artisans, farmers, merchants and business men as it does to those who will practice medicine, law, dentistry or any other profession.

"We have been training boys and girls away from their life work. We must train a girl for more efficiency in the home. Her arithmetic should be that needed to manage her own home. Practically seven girls out of eight are married at the age of 25. Should we not take this into consideration when we plan our high school course? Home economics, household economy, manual training, personal hygiene, physical education and allied studies are important and yet the woman's colleges of the country will not accept any of this work as part of the entrance requirement. The high school must toady less to the college and plan its course to train its students for service."

Nearly $3,000,000 in legitimate business trickles annually from Washington county into mail order houses. Why? There are many reasons, among them being the lack of cooperation among merchants who are not always quite as wideawake as they might be. Those who beat the mail order houses will have to arise considerably before sunrise.

Washington county now has a thriving suffrage organization and a thriving anti-suffrage organization. Apparently there is considerable difference of opinion as to whether a woman has rights, or perhaps it is a difference of opinion about the method of obtaining differently understood rights.

Carrick, near Pittsburg, has a speed trap for unwary autoists who know no better than to attempt a 25-mile rate on a 15-mile law. That makes one wonder why other towns don't follow the example.

County officers and state police in Westmoreland county are working with the Monessen police for the suppression of punch board games of chance. Why the movement shouldn't be made general is a question, for punch board gambling is a form particularly pernicious, because of its attraction for children.

Raising potatoes that are record-breakers for size without detracting from the quality, a grower near Bentleyville has simply proved this, that Washington county, Pennsylvania, soil is just as good as there is to be found anywhere.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

A young couple had been courting for several years and the young man seemed to be in no hurry to marry. Finally one day he said:

"Sal, I canna marry thee."
"How's that?" asked she.
"I've changed my mind," said he.
"Well, I'll tell thee what we'll do," said she. "If folks know that it's thee as has given me up I shanna be able to get another chap, but if they think I've given thee up then I can get all I want. So we'll have banns published and when the wedding day comes the parson will say to thee, 'Wilt thou have this woman to be thy wedded wife?' and thou must say 'I will.' And when he says to me, 'Wilt thou have this man to be thy wedded husband?' I shall say, 'I winna.'"

The day came and when he minister asked the important question the man answered:

"I will."
Then the parson said to the woman: "Wilt thou have this man to be thy wedded husband?" and she said:

"I will."
"Why," said the young man, furiously, "you said you would say 'I winna.'"

"I know that," said the young woman. "But I've changed my mind."
Elsie had been to the city on her first shopping expedition and at the last store had sorrowfully emptied the contents of her small purse, relating an exchange. Coming home on train her father slyly slipped a bright penny into the empty purse with an eye to making his daughter's heart rejoice. Then behind the shelter of his paper he watched his daughter until she chanced to open the purse. Deeply perplexed the generous parent drew a sobbing little daughter into the shelter of his arms, until at "Py, oh, py, didn't I spend it!"

DEEDS TAKE STAMPS TO VALUE OF $1,500 ON TRANSFER OF COAL

One of the largest deeds ever recorded in this county has just been filed in the court house for record. It is a deed of conveyance containing 276 printed pages from George Calvert, master and the Union Trust Co., of Pittsburg to Scott Hayes of Pittsburg for the coal underlying 169 tracts or farms in West Bethlehem, East Bethlehem, Amwell, North Strabane, Charters and Smith townships, Marianna and Canonsburg, Washington county and Armstrong, Greene and Allegheny counties. The total area is not given but it is the largest single sale of coal land that ever took place in Western Pennsylvania. The consideration named was $1,500,000.

This coal land was originally the property of the Pittsburg-Buffalo company which went into the hands of a receiver in 1914. The principal creditor was the Union Trust company of Pittsburg, which held a mortgage against the coal land of the Pittsburg-Buffalo company for $1,750,000, and George H. Calvert was appointed master to make the sale of the property of the defendant company. The amount of the mortgage was disputed, but the lower court held that this amount was correct. An appeal was taken from this decision by John H. Jones, one of the receivers to the supreme court of the state, but the decision of the lower court was affirmed.

On March 23, 1915, the court ordered a public sale of the property of the defendant company to satisfy this mortgage, but the sale was adjourned from time to time until July 15. The properties were exposed separately but no bids were received and the entire acreage of 169 tracts were offered as a whole to the Union Trust company. It directed that the deed be made out in the name of Scott Hayes. It required $1,500 in revenue stamps on this deed, which was represented by two stamps one of the $1,000 denomination and the other of the $500 denomination.

Richard Welch and Tom McGee, of Monessen arrested for snatching a pocketbook from the hand of Anna Wilkinson of Charleroi, while walking on the Charleroi bridge, will have a serious charge to face when their hearing is called before a Monessen justice. The girl claims she was on her way home when Welch accosted her and after assaulting her, took a pocketbook containing $8. She implicates McGee. Both men deny the charge.

NEW IN NAVAL CONSTRUCTION

Three-Gun Turret, Recently Placed on American Ships, is an Innovation of Unknown Quality.

Our new battleships Nevada and Oklahoma with their three gun turrets may be the forerunners of a radical change in the methods of big-gun distribution on our super-dreadnaughts—unless, indeed, the super-dreadnaught itself is to be driven to the scrap heap by the submarine. The new vessels carry ten 14-inch guns—three each in a bow and stern turret, and two each in two midship turrets raised sufficiently so their guns may be trained over the three-gun turrets. They can thus discharge an "end-side" fire of five 14-inch guns either ahead or astern.

Italy and Austria each has at least one three-gun turret ship, and France is to try a turret carrying four guns. Up to date, however, there seems to have been no really thorough test of either of these arrangements. The chief advantage claimed for this concentration of big guns appears to be the concentration of fire resulting from it. Some naval constructors question the practicability of keeping these new "deck-forts" in good working condition, under the enormous shocks and strains produced by their mammoth broadsides. There is also some criticism of the policy of putting so many eggs in one basket. Two disabled turrets on the Nevada will put six instead of four guns out of commission.

Commissioner R. J. Cunningham is working out details of the road patrol system for repairs and maintenance and the appointments will be made soon. In all probability the system will be inaugurated this week. Steps have been taken to pay the townships of the state some of the state bounty money. Brownsville Ready to Entertain Visitors—All Meetings to be Held at Central Presbyterian Church

Provisions for the entertainment of the Ringgold cavalry at Brownsville at their annual reunion, Thursday, August 19, have practically been completed by the entertainment committee appointed some time ago. It has been decided to make the Central Presbyterian church the headquarters of the affair. The members of the cavalry will enroll at that church and will hold their business meeting and camp fire there. It has also been decided to have the speakers address the cavalry and visitors from the Central Presbyterian pulpit. Both the church and the Second M. E. church of South Brownsville will be used to provide the dinner and supper. The committee reports that they have secured special rates at the hotels for members of the cavalry who wish to stay over night in Brownsville. The Brownsville Citizens' band has been engaged to play for the entire day.

MARRIAGE IN RUSSIA

OCCASION OF MUCH CEREMONY AMONG THE PEASANTS.

Ancient Customs Still Observed in the Land of the Czar—Wedding Feast Always a Time of Great Mirth.

In ancient times a betrothed Russian maiden always used to send her future husband a whip, wrought by herself, in token of her submission to him and on her wedding day he gave her a gentle stroke upon the shoulders to show that he was the matrimonial master. Among the nobles the wedding is usually an evening function, the bridal pair fasting during the day which precedes it. The ceremonies are numerous; many assistants and masters of ceremonies have to be invited—ladies of honor and bridesmaids. The party seeking the bride, among the peasants, usually chooses a byway so as not to meet anyone for a meeting would be an evil omen.

Having arrived at the house of the bride's father they knock at the window and ask for admission. They refuse to sit down, saying, "We have not come to sit down nor to feast, but to ask in marriage. We have a brave youth, you have a fair maiden. Might not the two be brought together?" The bride's parents, thanking the visitors for the compliment, the latter now take off their caps and eat. This done the matchmakers ask for a final answer.

Pleading for time to think the matter over, the parents finally give their consent, after which a candle is lighted and placed before the holy picture. The contracting parties cross themselves, pray, strike hands on the bargain and the matter is settled. The wedding clothes are blessed by the priest.

Solemn is the blessing bestowed by the respective parents of the bride and bridegroom before leaving their homes, sacred pictures, which precede them into the church, are waved three times over their heads, two wax tapers are given to the pair and the bearer of the taper which goes out first will be the first to die.

In the marriage ceremony a ring of gold is given by the man to the woman and by the woman to the man and afterwards exchanged by the best man. The bridal pair are crowned with filigree of silver or garlands, and the last act is the dissolution of the crowns, which in olden times took place upon the eighth day, when the bride was conducted to the bridegroom's house. During this last ceremony wine mingled with water is given in allusion to the marriage at Cana.

When the priest, followed by the bridal pair, walk around the "maloy" upon which the cross and gospels are placed, an address on their duties is delivered; they kiss each other, the benediction is pronounced and the newly wedded pair is now led to the bridegroom's house. His parents meet the young couple at the entrance to the house and bless them with bread and salt, while the relatives pour barley down over them, which expresses the hope that harmony and happiness may be theirs.

They may now enter the house and sit down on a bench, while the bride hides her face with a handkerchief, which is taken away by her mother-in-law or an aunt, after which she receives the married woman's head-dress. The wedding feast follows, which, among the Russian peasants, is an occasion of great mirth.

The marriage age fixed by the church is eighteen for boys and sixteen for girls. Men must not marry after eighty or women after sixty. Two years' penance—exclusion from the holy communion—is the penalty for a second marriage, five years' penance for a third, while a fourth marriage is impossible.

Lost Life in Work of Rescue.

A lifeboat man perished at Worthing, England, during the gallant attempt of the crew of the lifeboat Richard Coleman to reach the schooner Kingsmill in distress. The craft was launched in record time. Some soldiers lent a hand, several going waist-deep into the water to get the lifeboat clear of the beach. Tremendous seas, such as Coxswain Marshall said he had never experienced before, caused the lifeboat to capsize, but it was of self-righting pattern and the crew were soon back in their places. A little later the lifeboat capsized again and the drenched crew were once more thrown into the water. This time one of the men, Jack Burgess, failed to get back. His body was recovered by men on the shore, who practiced artificial respiration in vain. Before the lifeboat could reach her the schooner had been driven ashore.

Steals Bernhard Painting.

An oil painting by Sarah Bernhardt, reported to be valued at several thousands of dollars, was stolen from the lobby of the Punch and Judy theater at New York.

The canvas by the French actress had been presented to Charles Hopkins, owner of the theater, when he was a student at Yale. The picture is that of a dog viewing a city scene. The artist oddly carried the dog's tail from the canvas to the frame.

Many of the Punch and Judy patrons recall the fluffy dog, looking very much like a muff, which adorned the wall near the box office.

CANDIDATES LIKELY TO BE LEFT OUT IN COLD

Failure to Properly Prepare Petitions May Mean That Some Will Not Get Names on Ballots—Some Being Returned.

There are some candidates for nomination at the primaries in September who are going to be left out in the cold for their names will not appear on the official ballot unless they use more care in preparing their petitions.

Chief Clerk Campbell of the county commissioners office stated Wednesday that a large number of petitions have to be sent back. This will be done until it is too late to send them back, and after that time if a petition is not in proper form, then that candidate will not get on the ballot. A large number of petitions have come in that have not set forth the occupation of the candidate, some are not properly signed, others do not give the date of the signatures and are irregular in other points.

Clerk Campbell stated that there is not a blank place on these petitions that is not put there to be filled in. A petition coming in a day or two before the last day for filing them, or on the last day, which is not in proper form, will result fatally to the candidate in getting on the primary ballot. As high as nine petitions have been sent back in one day.

eon creek valley and connect with the Monongahela division of the Pennsylvania road which runs into Marianna and bring all that territory within easy reach of the county seat besides drawing from the entire territory between Washington and these industrial points.

It has been pointed out that there will be extensive developments in the next year or two in this part of Washington county. The Lackawanna company is increasing its operations at both Cokeburg and Ellsworth and the prospects are that other mines will be opened within a short time on the Mollvaine farm, west of the present site of Cokeburg. With the change in ownership of the Marianna works there will also be renewed activities there as this is one of the largest coal plants in the county.

In fact the entire section of Washington county which will be tapped by this proposed line will show a wonderful development and increase in population within the next few years.

OUTING PLANS COMPLETED

nesday a big outing will be held from Roscoe and Coal Centre. The Sunday schools and the merchants of the towns have joined to give a big picnic, and are making arrangements for the event. That evening a private dance will be held at the park by the L. C. B. A. of Donora.

Thursday the B. P. O. Elks of Donora will give a stag picnic at the park that promises to be an entertaining affair.

On Friday an outing will be held by Lady Maccabees from the valley at the park and it will be a big event that will bring scores to the park from numerous points. Blacksmiths of the valley have booked Saturday as their date for a picnic and anticipate a good time at the park.
